Pastor Daren: Lenten Worship, Soup Suppers with Teaching, and the World Religions

As we begin our church season of Lent, we enter a time of preparation. Traditionally, this is when Christians around the world worship together, eat together and learn together. It is a time of reflection and movement towards a cross and an empty tomb. And, for Lutherans, it is usually a time to pause for evening worship and settle down for good soup and bread.

For this coming Lent, Wednesday evening worship will begin at 6 p.m. followed by soup supper at 6:30 p.m. During the meal, around 6:45 p.m., we will have a teaching time that goes until 7:30 p.m. when choir practice begins. If you’ve ever thought about joining the choir, the Season of Lent and Easter are a wonderful time to try it out.

During the teaching time, we will explore some of the world religions as we reflect upon our own faith. This might seem like a funny thing to do, but it is often when we explore something different that we discover exactly what we truly believe. So, as we study different religions like Hinduism, Buddhism, Islam and other traditions, we will compare and contrast them with our own Christian faith. By the time we enter Holy Week, my prayer is that we will not only appreciate our diverse world a little more, but that we would rediscover the power and love of God as witnessed in a Last Supper, a wooden cross, and an empty tomb.

For those who would like to dig deeper into the subject of world religions, I will also offer a morning class at 10 a.m. that is topically similar to the material of the Lenten evening teaching time, but goes into much more detail. The class will run from 10 a.m. to around 11:15 a.m. and will take the place of our Bible Study time—by the way, we will begin the Book of Joshua for our next Bible study after Easter, so please join us.

To summarize, Lenten Worship and Soup Suppers with Teaching will take place during the five Wednesdays of Lent after Ash Wednesday: February 21, 28, and March 7, 14, and 21.

- 10:00 – 11:15 a.m.: Morning Teaching Time in the Fellowship Hall
- 6:00 p.m.: Evening Worship in the Sanctuary
- 6:30 p.m.: Soup Supper and Teaching Time in the Fellowship Hall
- 7:30 p.m.: Choir Practice

Ash Wednesday isironically on Valentine’s Day this year and we will have services at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. with the imposition of ashes at both services. Although, an ashen cross on our forehead may seem a little strange next to cupids, red hearts and chocolate—the reality of Christ in our life is truly the best valentine of them all.

God bless you,
Pastor Daren
I really enjoyed our “Bring a Bell” Sunday last month. Once again, it was so fun to hear the variety of bells and chimes ringing throughout the service. I heard jingle bells, sleigh bells, ceramic bells, metal bells, chimes, and the organ zimbelstern! It is such a joyful sound to hear all those bells playing along with our hymns. I found myself smiling throughout the service. Thank you for participating!

Worship band was so much fun last Sunday! We hope you were touched by and enjoyed the music as much as we did! We have several more dates set in 2018. Stay tuned!

Our journey through Lent begins this month, with Ash Wednesday on February 14th. The five Wednesdays after that, we will come together to sing the Holden Evening Prayer, then meet for soup and teaching time. I am looking forward to this time of worship, fellowship and learning. Please plan to make this part of your weekly Lenten practice.

Due to the Lenten services, our hand bell and choir schedules will change for the next couple of months. Hand bells will not practice during Lent. We will come back together after Easter, on April 11th. Choir rehearsals will follow the soup suppers from 7:30-8:30. If you like to sing, and have ever even considered it, we would love to have you join us. We can always use more voices! You do not have to be able to read music. We are a fun group; come check us out!

In His Service,

Henry has crafted a wonderful book filled with the complete history of our organ. His compilation includes color photographs, intricate details of the mechanics of the organ, and an enjoyable CD of 15 pieces he has performed on it. There are a limited number of copies available for $15. Checks should be made payable to House of Prayer, with “organ book” written on the memo line.

See Carol to purchase.

Proceeds go to the music department.

Henry Doktorski’s “Anatomy of an Organ” opens with a Mozart quote, which is a power move and should be respected. I learned a lot of things from Henry’s book, including a delightful reminder of how good he is at his job. I guess there was stuff about the organ’s history too, so I can write about that.

First of all, our organ is expensive. Like, beyond my comprehension of money’s worth expensive, which isn’t saying much, because having two physical dollars at a time is a great day for me, but still. I’m talking almost just a chunk of it would get me out of all my student loan debt expensive.

Secondly, there were a bunch of cool ladies involved, mostly in running the committee and, oh yeah, providing a huge spelunking chunk of the money. Powerful women at work, yeah boy.

Thirdly, Henry is bitchin at his job, whatever it entails. Writer, photographer, musician, historian, all around cool dude. Noice.

Fourth, the technical stuff was all kind of confusing, but also like an “Ograns For Dummies” books, so props to Henry for recognizing his audience knows Literally Nothing about how organs work.

Finally, the book is cool you should buy it.

The end thanks my mom asked me to use my fancy English degree to write this

Henry Doktorski’s “Anatomy of an Organ” includes everything you might ever want to know about House of Prayer’s organ. And while we lucky congregation members get to hear the organ every Sunday, how often do we really listen?

Henry’s book kicks off with a history of the organ, starting with the idea for installation and highlighting the generosity of the congregation members. Henry’s historical account of the organ provides interesting insight into the creation of what has become such an important fixture in our church. House of Prayer simply wouldn’t be what it is today without our beautiful Schlicker two-manual and pedal organ.

Henry talks at length about the architecture and structure of the organ, which reads like a boastful compliment to the instrument and how House of Prayer has benefited from it. And while a lot of the technical language was lost on me, I could appreciate the time and effort that Henry devoted to showcasing our organ is such a flattering light. There’s a lot more to it than what we see (and hear) every Sunday, and it was like getting to peek below the hood of a familiar car to find that it’s engine is pure gold. Henry does a great job explaining everything, though I’m hoping he won’t quiz me on what all the mechanical parts are called. I’ll leave that mastery to him (and anyone else who wants to dig into the wonders of our pedal organ).

Henry steps momentarily out of his role as writer, musician, and historian, to become a photographer. He includes pictures of the organ, most of which show the industrial grace and majesty that both the interior and exterior of the organ display. The pictures provide an even better image (pun intended) of all the bells and whistles (literally) our organ includes, ranging from the foot pedal details to the ebony keys to the towering metal pipes and the tiny bells that make our organ so complex and charming.

The compilation is not only a showcase of our organ, but of our organist, who must appreciate both the church and the instrument an enormous amount to create something as researched as this. Henry’s book comes with a CD featuring a variety of pieces played on the organ (by Henry himself!). You can actually hear all the bits and pieces you read about, and that adds to the dimensions of both Henry’s work and the organ itself.

Henry’s book takes us through the ins and outs of the organ, and when I walk into church next Sunday after reading it, I hope I’ll get to see the organ in a new light. And after ten years of hearing it play, I hope this time I’ll really listen.

We held our January council meeting a week earlier than usual on the 9th. I gave a devotion inspired by the Reverend Billy Graham. The meeting proceeded with acceptance of the last meeting minutes and the Treasurer’s report.

Pastor Daren gave an overview of what will happen for the Wednesday Lenten services. Not counting Ash Wednesday, Maundy Thursday, or Good Friday, the evening services will be starting at 6:00 P.M. and be short. Soup suppers to immediately follow and some teaching will occur at the latter part of the supper and finish to allow choir practice to start at 7:30.

After some discussion we approved the 2018 budget for presentation to the congregation.

We are starting to execute more of the long-range plan. Check out the spiffy new tables in the fellowship hall. Big thanks to Danny for spearheading the acquisition.

Our new directory is closer to reality. It is now in an electronic format that can be updated fairly easily. What remains is to finish cropping photos for best fit and then voila! Soon! Maybe?!?!

We have some work to do this year to revamp the Endowment Committee as well as the Mutual Ministry Committee. They need to be streamlined and be rid of cumbersome practices. This will likely require some bylaw changes. Please give me your input or thoughts.

As I mentioned above Billy Graham was once asked by a politician if he was an optimist or a pessimist. He quickly replied that he was an optimist. The politician asked how that could be given the state of the world/country etc. The Reverend replied: “Because I read the last page of the Bible.”

Blessings and best regards, peace out!

Blindsided by a new generation of blazing-fast cars, the legendary Lighting McQueen finds himself pushed out of the sport that he loves. Hoping to get back in the game, he turns to Cruz Ramirez, an eager young technician who has her own plans for winning. With inspiration from the Fabulous Hudson Hornet and a few unexpected turns, No. 95 prepares to compete on Piston Cup Racing's biggest stage.
It was very exciting to be in church last Sunday. First, we were able to witness the baptism of Rylie and Matthew Wills. They attend second service and Vacation Bible school. They always have a smile on their faces. Then we had a children’s sermon with 12 children sitting next to Pastor talking about being children of God. I LOVE seeing all the children and families at our church.

Our confirmation class continues to grow and meets the second Sunday of the month. This month we will be studying about Worship and Doubt. Bring your Bibles and your questions. Confirmands save the date for confirmation camp- July 15-20. We will start registration in March.

Our preschool and Elementary Sunday School continues to meet on Sunday mornings. The preschool meets during the sermon first service. Sunday School classes are at 10-10:30. The High school and college students are invited to join me on Feb. 19th for coffee. Let me know if you can come.

The Youth are preparing for the ELCA National Youth Gathering 2018. It is only offered to High School youth. The National gathering is held every three years. It is really something seeing 30,000 ELCA youth worshipping, praying, learning and serving one community together. This will be House of Prayer’s third time attending and we have two youth excited to represent our congregation. Our other youth will be busy this summer and we are sorry they will miss this opportunity. We estimate that we need to raise about $ 5000 for our youth to attend this meaningful event.

I have always believed that if we want to have a living active church we need to start with our youngest members. When I was first hired I told the pastor, I would need to spend time with kids in middle school and younger to keep our High school programs growing. Since Pastor Daren started, we have been planning classes and activities for not just the youth, but for youth of all ages. That is why seeing all those young people on Sunday was so exciting. I am see more young families each week. Remember Jesus words in Luke 18:15-23 (NIV)

The Little Children and Jesus
15 People were also bringing babies to Jesus for him to place his hands on them. When the disciples saw this, they rebuked them. 16 But Jesus called the children to him and said, “Let the little children come to me, and do not hinder them, for the kingdom of God belongs to such as these. 17 Truly I tell you, anyone who will not receive the kingdom of God like a little child will never enter it.”

Please join me in making these families feel welcome!

Blessing to you all,
Kitty Wiebe
